Each hour-long episode will be available on demand for seven days after it airs.

“We wish we could welcome audiences into our venues in person, but health and safety must be the top priority right now,” says Alex Mustakas, Artistic Director of Drayton Entertainment. “We hope this fun virtual series brings theatre-lovers some much-needed joy and entertainment as they stay home to stay safe. By purchasing the series, patrons will not only learn more about the Canadian theatre industry and many of the artists that they know and love, they’ll also be providing important support in the midst of these latest restrictions, which have once again shuttered our operations.”

Hosted by Mustakas, Backstage Pass features exciting performances and interviews with over 40 incredible Canadian theatre artists, everyone from beloved veteran actors and the country’s leading stars, to up-and-coming young performers poised for success. Audiences will love hearing personal stories and watching compelling performances from many popular artists including AJ Bridel (Kinky Boots for Drayton and Toronto/Charlottetown’s Anne of Green Gables), Patrick R. Brown (Drayton’s Beauty and the Beast/Broadway’s The Lion King & Aladdin), Alexis Gordon (Drayton’s Godspell/Shaw Festival/Stratford Festival), Lisa Horner (Drayton’s 9 to 5: The Musical/Come From Away Toronto), Lee MacDougall (Drayton’s The Foursome/Come From Away Original Broadway Company), Robert Markus (Drayton’s Chicago/Dear Evan Hansen Toronto/Stratford Festival), Marcus Nance (Drayton’s The Little Mermaid/Stratford Festival/La Boheme Broadway), Tim Porter (Drayton’s ELF, and many panto productions), Michael Vanhevel (Drayton’s Big Band Legends/Recording Artist), Danielle Wade (Drayton’s Mamma Mia!, Footloose/Broadway’s Mean Girls), and many other talented performers.

Backstage Pass follows the success of Drayton Entertainment’s first digital offering We’ll Meet Again, a variety show that was only available to a limited audience in 2020. The professional theatre company filmed the 10-episode series during the initial pandemic shut down and made them available as a means to stay connected to current patrons while the theatres were closed to in-person performances. This new series will be available for purchase publicly.

“We’ll Meet Again was a wonderful experience. Audiences were so happy to see virtual performances from some of their favourite Drayton performers in 2020,” said Mustakas. “This next series is totally different from We’ll Meet Again in terms of content, but it follows a similar weekly format. In addition to some exceptional performances, Backstage Pass includes heartwarming personal interviews with the artists – audiences get to learn more about them as people, and hear some fun behind-the-scenes stage stories. It’s really a blast.”

Backstage Pass will also include a Smile of the Day segment from popular entertainer Neil Aitchison as his loveable alter-ego Constable Archibald F. Inkster, and a recurring visit from funnyman Wade Lynch, whose “royal” appearance is sure to elicit some laughs. Lynch recently appeared as Little Big Man in A Closer Walk with Patsy Cline in St. Jacobs over the holiday season.

Audiences will also get to meet the nine finalists in The Great Community Talent Search over the course of the series. Each week, a contestant will share their talent, and on the final episode, audiences will be given instructions on how to vote for the Grand Prize winner. The Top 9 finalists are: Emma Reynolds of Penetanguishene, Faridhusen Mansuri of Guelph, Emily McRobbie from Harriston, Malia Dilana Alfonso from Leamington, Adam Rigby & Cayleigh Lennox from Dundas, Abigail Shatford of Pelham, Simon Zenker of Elmira, and the Rezonation Quartet from Kitchener-Waterloo.

“We’re excited about the unique way that this series highlights homegrown talent, both established and up-and-coming. There are many shows about actors and the behind-the-scenes process on Broadway, but so few, if any, shine the light on Canadian talent and the theatre industry here in Canada. I think viewers will love learning more about the performers that they’ve seen (or are going to see) on stages across the country,” said Mustakas.

The series was filmed by 519 Films. Drayton Entertainment has partnered with TheaterMania to stream Backstage Pass. TheaterMania is a live stream and video-on-demand platform for theatre and entertainment enthusiasts. Tickets are purchased from Drayton Entertainment directly and patrons are then sent a secure link to watch the series on the TheaterMania platform as each episode is released. Tickets are on sale now. Audiences can choose to buy the complete series for a package price or select individual episodes for purchase.
